PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT

God is not saving the world, it is done. Our business is to get men and women to realize it.

OSWALD CHAMBERS

When was the last time you led someone to Christ? If a conversation with an unsaved friend turns to spiritual matters, do you have a script in your head explaining the simple yet profound doctrine of grace? As believers, the ability to speak coherently about Jesus is in our job description: “We are . . . Christ’s ambassadors, as though God were making his appeal through us” (2 Corinthians 5:20).

The facts are readily available.

Everybody sins. Sin separates us from God. Somebody has to pay for our sins. God loved us so much that he sent his Son to pay for our sins. Jesus accepted that burden—taking the sins of the world to the cross. It cost him everything. But to us, grace is a free gift. All we have to do is believe and accept it. There’s not much more to it than that.

With a little effort, you could find some supporting Scripture and be ready to deliver the plan of salvation to anyone at any time and any place. All you need is someone to practice on. Hmmm. Do you know someone who looks up to you and will listen to you while you get the words right? Maybe someone who needs to know about grace themselves?

Dad, your kids need Jesus too. And it’s a rush—and a privilege—to be the one who helps them take that step of faith into God’s kingdom.

WHAT ABOUT YOU?

If you didn’t know, this is the most important devotion in this book. For you. And for your kids. And for your neighbors. And for your enemies.

Key Selling Points:

- Bestselling author (over 500,000 books sold!) Jay Payleitner brings his wit, insights, and practical dad experience to this encouraging devotional.
- Jay’s simple yet heartfelt approach to fatherhood has helped his books successfully reach out to dads from all walks of life and at every stage of parenting.
- A hardcover with appealing interior design, this devotional makes a perfect gift.

CHAPTER ONE

The Formative Adventure

Believe you can and you're halfway there.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

Confidence doesn't live in one arena; it travels. And the confidence you can find in sojourning alone—near or far—can translate to other aspects of your life. Buying your own train ticket and navigating to the platform can be what you remember before a difficult exam. Finding your way out of a wrong turn without asking directions can give you the feeling of empowerment you need to apply for that new job. Ordering from a menu not in your language and then savoring and enjoying the food can be what you remember as you face a difficult interview question. Life experiences often help us find the courage we need in other areas.

For me, building that confidence—and the confidence to adventure on my own—started both early and close to home.

As I was finishing high school, I made a list of things

THE URGE

The mountains are calling and I must go.

JOHN MUIR

You're in your hometown, just going about your business, like mailing a package or picking up some fresh produce, and you see one. You stop and watch from the corner of your eye as a big ol' RV ambles down Main Street. Maybe you admire the paint job, or perhaps you think it's somewhat garish. But that rig's grabbed your attention. Then you wonder: Where are they headed and where have they been? And the next thing you know, you have the urge—that unexplainable urge to drop everything and hit the road too.

Now you're thinking about the comforting interior of your RV or trailer. Or maybe you're imagining your campsite with that cozy tent all set up and your camp chairs around a crackling fire. You can almost smell marshmallows roasting. You're reminded of the peace and quiet of the woods...and escaping the demands of the day, free from your neighbor's noisy leaf blower.

As you drive through town, you feel an uncontrollable urge to go home and check the air pressure in your camp trailer's tires. Or you want to see if there's gas in the RV. Or you're making plans to dig out your camp supplies, hoping you aired out your tent after that last trip. Whatever the impulse that's grabbing at you, the wanderlust has bitten.

Perhaps you find yourself thinking about that cute set of unbreakable containers you found at the local flea market last fall...or considering the weight of cast-iron pans. And maybe you should drop by the hardware store for some camping toilet paper that's on special this week. Before you know it, you're pulled out your well-worn road map and you're planning a little getaway. Just a few days maybe, or weeks, or months...

But where does that urge originate? Why do some people feel the need to go, while others don't? Could it be the adventuresome spirit of pioneer ancestors, those brave people who traveled unthinkable distances to find a better way of living? Because almost everyone in this country has ancestors who migrated here from someplace else.

No doubt, life on the rustic trail came with daunting challenges, but imagine the moments when a weary traveler paused to gaze upon a raging river, the morning sun across the prairie grasses, a chain of snow-capped mountains, a herd of elk,

Entry 8
SLEEPAWAY CAMP

*Adventure is a path.
Real adventure, self-determined, self-motivated, often risky, forces you to have firsthand encounters with the world.*

MARK JENKINS

Do you remember your first overnight camping experience? Although I have fond memories of camping with my grandparents, going to sleepover camp stands out in my memory as one of my first camping adventures. Probably because it was something I did completely on my own.

I am only ten when I convince my mother I'm old enough to handle a week of sleepover camp. Never mind that my older sister has no interest in such endeavors, and none of my friends are going. I eagerly go over the camp list, crossing off each item as I collect it. I never had a waterproof soapbox before, and I wonder why I need a "personal" towel and washcloth. I still remember the musty canvas smell of the army surplus store—where I go to get a duffel bag and sleeping bag. We're allowed only one duffel bag, so I must stuff my sleeping bag into the bottom, leaving about ten inches to cram in the rest of my belongings. But being a tomboy ten-year-old, there's not much to pack.

Despite my independent bravado, telling my mom and sister they don't need to hang around to say goodbye, I feel nervous as I wait for the camp bus to show up at the city park. And when I see other families seeing off their kids, many who are older than I am, I feel a little strange. As they exchange hugs and kisses, I notice a few curious looks: Do they think I'm an orphan or something?

But I keep my chin up and load my duffel bag onto the back of the bus, acting like I'm an old hand at this. By the time we're all loaded onto the bus and the leaders start leading camp songs like "The Ants Go Marching," I gladly join in.

I love the feeling of going somewhere exciting. And when we get to Camp Silver Falls, I feel like I've come home. Okay, a home away from home. I love the smell of the pine trees, the look of the big lodge, and the little wood cabins with bunk beds not so different from mine at home. I love the lake with its long dock and colorful canoes. I love everything. I am a natural-born camper.

A few other girls in my cabin—even ones with friends here—get homesick. But not me. It's not that I don't love my mom and sis; I just don't really miss them much. But I do write a postcard or two. And even though I like to write, I keep my reports brief. There's too much to do here. Canoeing, swimming, sports, the craft shed, archery...there aren't enough hours in the day to do it all!

The food is okay, but my favorite meal is when we make hobo stew in the campfire coals. And I love the end of the day when all the campers gather around a giant campfire...and the singing and the ghost stories and making s'mores.

I've heard that if you want to discover what you'd like to be as an adult, you should remember what you loved as a ten-year-old. Well, I can admit I loved writing, but I also loved camping. I guess that explains a few things.

*We shall not cease from exploration
And the end of all our exploring
Will be to arrive where we started
And know the place for the first time.*

T.S. ELIOT

TIP FOR THE DAY

When preparing for camping, I try to remember that, as a ten-year-old, I didn't need that many clothes to get by. Really, less is more. Traveling light makes sense with camping. Remember to pack—and to dress—in layers. Choose fabrics and styles that are comfortable—and make you feel good. Have something for all temperatures, whether it's the crisp chill of morning, the sun-baking heat of day, or protecting yourself from mosquitoes in the evening.

REALLY SIMPLE HOBO STEW
(aka Mulligan Stew)

- 1 sweet onion, chopped
- 2 T. olive oil
- 1 lb. stew meat chunks (or 1 lb. hamburger)
- 1 tsp. seasoning (I use Montreal steak seasoning)
- Salt and pepper
- 1 (14.5 oz.) can diced tomatoes
- 1 small bag baby carrots
- 1 small bag baby potatoes
- Other veggies you like (corn, celery, mushrooms)
- 2 (14.5 oz.) cans beef broth

Sauté the onion in the olive oil (or, if you like bacon, you can chop up some and sauté the onions with it). Add the meat and brown. Add the seasoning and salt and pepper to taste, and then transfer the meat and onion mixture to a Crock-Pot or Dutch oven. Add the veggies and broth, and slow cook in the Crock-Pot for six to ten hours. Or you can cook on the stove or over an open fire until the potatoes are tender.

Serves 4 to 6 with leftovers.

PAIN RELIEVERS AND ALL-NATURAL BUG SPRAYS

A few all-natural additions to your standard first aid kit can help everything from a sunburn and bug bites to an upset tummy.

LAVENDER ESSENTIAL OIL

For sunburn, 30 drops in 1 ounce of coconut oil. Gently daub on to relieve the burn.

For bug bites, 15 to 20 drops in half an ounce of grapeseed oil. Apply directly to the bite area for relief.

ALL-NATURAL BUG SPRAY

If you keep the bugs off you, they won't bite you! Try this great-smelling spray. In a spray bottle, mix:

- 2 ounces witch hazel
- 2 ounces distilled water
- 10 drops geranium essential oil
- 15 drops lavender essential oil
- 5 drops patchouli essential oil
- 1 drop lemongrass essential oil
- 10 drops citronella essential oil

Shake well and spray on clothing and exposed-skin, avoiding the face and eye area.

BANANA PEEL

Believe it or not, bananas not only have healthy potassium, but the inside of the peel rubbed on a mosquito bite can stop the itching fast!

UPSET TUMMY

Settle an upset tummy with chamomile, peppermint, or ginger tea. Ginger also helps with motion or car sickness.

PLANTS TO AVOID

Although it's called poison ivy, this irritating plant can be found growing on the ground and in the grass. Learning to identify the telltale three-leaf pattern is key! Look out for others like this too: poison oak and poison sumac.

I am an ex-terrorist.

I raised my hand high to volunteer to become a jihadi fighter, but then I met Jesus . . .and that changed everything.

Born the unwanted third daughter, Esther Ahmad grew up Muslim in Pakistan. Her faith and country drove every aspect of her first 18 years, from what she wore and what she ate to her prospects for work and marriage, even to the manner of her death.

Unveiled chronicles Esther's conversion to Christianity and escape from radical Islam. Chapter by chapter, Esther lays out the lies of the Qur'an and holds them against the truths she found in the Bible. As she examines the differences between the Muslim and Christian scriptures, she reveals how she found her true identity as she journeyed from unwanted daughter to cherished child of God, from being marked by impurity to taking on the purity of Christ, and from being enslaved to rote prayer to becoming free in a true relationship with God.

Esther's white-knuckle journey will open your eyes to the plight of women around the world and inspire you to find the courage you need to speak the hope of Christ into the lives of those who still live behind the veil.

Esther Ahmad fled her home country of Pakistan due to life-threatening persecution for her Christian faith. She and her family were refugees in Malaysia for eight years; today, they reside in the American South. Esther shares her story of survival and redemption as she speaks to churches and organizations. 5. From Allah's Wrath to the Father's Love
6. From Silence to Answered Questions
7. From Dead Letters to the Living Word
8. From Despair to Hope
9. From Invisible to Present

Key Selling Point:

- A unique insight into the mind of a jihadi. Esther is one of the few Christians alive today who can explain firsthand the process by which Muslims are converted to fanatical extremism. Articulate, with great English and an engaging personality, Esther makes for a compelling interviewee. Throughout their eight years in Malaysia, and in the two years since arriving in the US, Esther has regularly been invited to share her testimony and offer her insight into evangelism among Muslims. She is a confident, accomplished, engaging speaker.
- A fascinating account of a real-life, high-stakes apologetics debate between some of Pakistan's greatest Islamic scholars and a teenage Christian whose faith is barely two years old.
- The story will serve to encourage and strengthen the voice of American churches. Despite her past political affiliations, Esther Ahmad and her husband and daughters have been welcomed by the US as immigrants. In July 2016 they left Malaysia and became residents of Mobile, Alabama.
- Esther is confident when discussing all aspects of her story, and has a commanding knowledge of the Qur'an. She is able to analyze and articulate the differences between Islam and Christianity on both an intellectual and a personal level.

Broken Bread

How to Stop Using Food and Fear to Fill Spiritual Hunger

Food was no longer a means of division—no longer a curtain. The curtain had become a tablecloth, and the table was laid with Christ the Son.

Ever notice how much time Jesus spent around a table? If he wasn't sharing a meal with others, he was handing out free meals.

If Jesus called himself the "bread of life," why is it that our relationship with food is so complicated? We love it. We hate it. We hate that we love it. Whether we're obsessing over what not to consume—carbs, sugar, alcohol—or what we will devour—fat free, dairy free, gluten free—food has become burdensome.

Christian Book Award® winner Tilly Dillehay tackles the way we approach food. In Broken Bread, Dillehay identifies the four major food sins and the fears that drive them, and she offers a new way of thinking about food less in order to focus on more important matters.

When we take the business of breaking bread together seriously, as the early church did, we not only use the table to build community, faith, and love, but the act of preparing and eating food becomes sweeter, more savory, and much more enjoyable.

A Narrow Escape

He who dwells in the shelter of the Most High will rest in the shadow of the Almighty.

PSALM 91:1

It was nighttime. Topanga Canyon Boulevard was at its busiest. Right under a dark overpass, my handicap-equipped van conked out. Everything went dead: the engine, the lights, and, to my horror, the brakes and steering. I was careening up a busy boulevard without any controls. I yanked violently on the braking mechanism, but my puny shoulder muscles were no match for the weight of a three-quarter-ton van rolling forward.

I was able to put a lid on my panic when the van finally drifted to a stop just short of the next intersection. Cars kept speeding around me.

After most of the traffic moved through the intersection, just when I thought I was safe, I screamed—my van was drifting backward! Oh, God, help me! Help me! I whimpered as I strained with all my might to pull back on the brake. I glanced in the rearview mirror and saw the headlights of oncoming traffic barreling up the boulevard. The van continued to drift in reverse. In the dark. With no taillights. I braced myself for the sound of screeching brakes and a rear-end collision.

Is this the way I'm going to die? In a fiery crash? God, have You abandoned me?

Just as I quit struggling and hunched over, waiting for a frightening crash, I spotted my husband's truck. I knew Ken had been driving somewhere behind me, but I didn't expect him to be the first to reach me out of the pack of traffic.

He suddenly came to a halt. As cars zoomed by he jumped out of his truck, bolted into the van, and

Who first recorded the creation of the world?
What tools did people use in Bible times?
When did the Israelites arrive and settle in Canaan?
Where exactly did Paul travel throughout his ministry?

The Bible is the most popular book in the world, yet there are many questions people ask as they seek evidence of its veracity. For truth seekers in search of physical evidence relating to the history of the world and the origin of faith, archaeology provides a rich treasure trove pointing toward the answers they seek.

In Unearthing the Bible, Dr. Titus M. Kennedy presents 101 objects from more than 50 museums, private collections, and archaeological sites, to offer strong and compelling evidence for the historical accuracy of Scripture.

Follow along the chronology of the Bible from Genesis to Revelation, with artifacts from the Mesopotamian tablets that record creation to graffiti found in the House of Peter. Examine inscriptions, coins, scarabs, tablets, papyri, stelae, reliefs, statues, altars, jewelry, weapons, tools, and pottery through vivid color photography. And learn how these artifacts not only demonstrate the historical reliability of the Bible but illuminate the ancient context for a more accurate understanding of God's Word.

Christmas CUSTOMS, TRADITIONS, AND LEGENDS

*Born in a stable,
Cradled in a manger,
In the world
His hands had made,
Born a stranger.*

— CHRISTINA ROSSETTI

“WHILE YOU ARE PROCLAIMING
PEACE WITH YOUR LIPS, BE CAREFUL TO HAVE IT EVEN MORE FULLY IN YOUR HEART.”

— SAINT FRANCIS

A Way, in a Manger

THE PERSON CREDITED with devising the Christmas manger scene is Saint Francis of Assisi. In 1223, Saint Francis decided he wanted to re-create the night Jesus was born. According to one of Francis's biographers (his disciple Thomas of Celano), he wanted to “make a memorial of that Child who was born in Bethlehem, and in some sort behold with bodily eyes His infant hardships, how He lay in a manger on the hay, with the ox and ass standing by.”

In the small town of Greccio, located between Rome and Assisi, Francis and his friend Giovanni Vellita built a stable and dressed people as Mary, Joseph, and the shepherds. He used a wax doll to represent the baby Jesus. The animals, including a donkey, some cows, and some sheep, were all real. Saint Francis hoped his manger scene would help people remember God's gift of his Son. He summoned the town's 1,500 residents to his display, and, as people viewed the spectacle, Francis read from the Scriptures.

Today, Saint Francis's tradition carries on in small and large scales. One example of the latter takes place in the town hall of The Hague, where a life-sized nativity scene is erected, with actual people and animals, including donkeys, oxen, and camels borrowed from a nearby zoo.

The story behind the Dove Award-winning song by Ryan Stevenson

Many recognize the blockbuster song “Eye of the Storm,” but few know about the arduous journey that took Ryan Stevenson from farm boy to acclaimed singer and songwriter.

Here, Stevenson shares about the turmoil of his early life, the rejection and pain faced in his initial attempts to launch his music career, the grief experienced during his mother’s long battle with cancer, the stress and burnout of his days working as a paramedic, and how an unexpected lightning storm gave him a front-row seat to a miracle that would turn his life around.

When the dark clouds roll in, Stevenson has learned to listen to that still, small voice he hears—the voice of a trustworthy God who holds on to him even during the fiercest storms.

WEEK 1

In the Beginning

John 1:1-4

The Bible is divided into two parts. The first part is called the Old Testament, and the second part of the Bible is called the New Testament.

Before we read the Bible, we need to pray and ask God to teach us. Prayer is talking to God.

Let's pray and ask God to teach us as we read the Bible.

"God, thank You for giving me Your book, the Bible. I know the Bible is the truth. Please teach me how to read and understand the Bible so I can know truth for myself. Please teach me who Jesus is. Amen."

DAY 1

WHEN Was the Word?

“Cooper, come look at Kate,” Callie called out. “Kate has her paws around the Bible! Kate wants to read the Bible too! Let’s read the Bible to Kate to find out WHO Jesus is.”

WHO is Jesus? Do you know? To find out the truth about Jesus, we need to read God’s book, the Bible.

God had one of Jesus’s disciples, John, write the Gospel of John in the Bible so we can learn WHO Jesus is.

The Gospel of John is in the second part of the Bible—the New Testament.

DAY 2

WHO Was the Word With?

Kate praying with Cooper and Callie!

to God too!

God, please teach me how to read and understand the Bible. I want to know WHO Jesus is. Thank You! Amen.”

WHAT is the name of the Gospel we are studying to learn about Jesus? Do you remember? Say it out loud.

Trace the name of the Gospel we are studying on the line below.

Can Flex Deal with the Drama?

Flex is a football player, not an actor. But he can fake it if it means getting to see KK, the girl he's dating (sort of—it's complicated), every day after school for about a month.

This play isn't for the weak, though. First, Flex has to deal with his nemesis, Actor Boy, the guy who greets girls with kisses on either cheek. C'mon, dude. Really?!?

Then there's the whole Shakespeare thing. What was "Bill" thinking when he wrote this gobbledygook? Thou dost protest...seriously.

Meanwhile KK is hanging out with Watson, the King of the Youth Group, and no amount of video game playing is going to make Flex feel okay about that. He'd better get his jealousy in check before KK checks out on him for good.

But with some encouragement from Mimi and Pops (his mom and dad), a little advice from an unlikely ally, and a whole lot of truth from God's awesome book, Flex might just turn his fear of failure into a performance befitting of the bard himself. Or at the very least, get KK to return his texts.

THEATER PARTY

This is my first theater party. I've never been to a theater party because I've never been in a play because in Empty Factory, Indiana, you don't do plays and play football. It just isn't done.

"Man, I'm really sorry," I reply. I have now fully relinquished the ironic band shirt, and we're actually sitting next to each other on the floor in the hallway.

"Wow. Then what happened?" I'm envisioning Actor Boy's dad living in a swank New York apartment and starring in plays on Broadway.

Short and practical devotions will teach her how to study her Bible, how to pray effectively, and how she can share her faith with others. She will also find plenty of room to record her thoughts, feelings, prayers, dreams, and future plans.

This undated planner takes her through 12 months, so she can start on January 1, the beginning of the school year, or any day she chooses. Each section includes a month-at-a-glance and weekly calendars to help her keep track of her schedule.

Your daughter can draw closer to Jesus and have her best year ever!

Here's a question for you: What makes a really fun experience even better? For me, the answer is, sharing that fun time with a friend! In the same way, when I'm sad or scared or frustrated, having a friend to talk to always makes me feel better.

Do you ever feel as if you're all alone or as if no one understands? I've felt that way. But as God's girl, you're never alone. Jesus is always with you, and He understands everything you're going through. So the next time you are facing something challenging—anything!—pray about it. Jesus wants to share that experience with you, and He has the answers and tools you need to make the best choices!

On the top of my prayer list, I put "Thank You." Then I think of different things to thank God for. Even though He has blessed me with so much (like family and friends and health), sometimes I forget to thank Him! Putting "Thank You" on the top of my list helps me to remember.—Kaitlyn

I always thank God for a beautiful day. I pray that my sisters and I get along. And I always pray for my family and friends who have needs.—Camryn

I thank God for the things I have, like my family. I pray for my friends too.—Olivia

"Praise God" goes on my list. I love praising Him. It's my happy prayer. I praise Him for His creation like the beautiful mountains I saw in California or for the wonderful horses I got to ride on vacation. They made me so happy!—Allena

An Example for You

In case you're new to filling a planner or not quite sure what to include on the following pages, I've included an example to give you some ideas. And here are a few fun things to consider...

- Do you want to use pens or pencils? Pens are bright and colorful, but if crossing out stuff bugs you, you might want to stick with pencil.
- Do you want to color-code what you write down? Some girls like to use a certain color for a certain activity (like orange for school stuff, blue for sports, green for chores, pink for vacation, and so on).
- How much do you want to write down? There's no right answer to this, but you can see an example here.
- How would you like to make your planner personal? You can add your own artwork or play around with calligraphy. Make it your own!

Hey, there! Welcome to the first of 52 weekly planning pages!

The most important part of your day is spending time with God. So that's why this is your first prompt—to decide when and where and how you'd like to do that.

That's the great thing about using a planner—even when your schedule gets super busy with homework and birthday parties and sports or music practice, you can see the stuff you've written down and do the things that are most important to you.

So before you write anything else, here are three ideas to help you to plan to meet with God.

My favorite time to meet with God is...

My favorite spot to meet with God is...

My favorite things to talk about with God is...

Having a relationship with God means that you spend time with Him because you want to—because you love Him. The more time you spend with Him, the easier it becomes to say yes whenever He asks you to do something.
